

18th UK Young Water Professionals Conference

University of Bath, 10 -12 April 2017

The 18th edition of the IWA Young Water Professionals Conference returns in April 2017 with a bigger focus on breaking the boundaries of communication across sectors, generations, cultures, disciplines and societies in order to achieve a more Sustainable Water World.

A Water World Without Boundaries

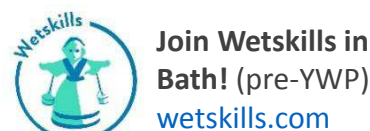

The IWA UK-YWP conference will focus on delivering tools for cross-field engagement and career development for water professionals. In addition to the usual inspiring keynotes and young speakers, flash presentations (1') and round-table discussions there will be a carefully prepared suite of workshops that will increase the interaction between the participants. The YWP conference in Bath will foster professional development and solidify a much-needed network of opportunities, ideas, skills and best practices.

Themes will be about, but not limited to: water management, technology improvement, inclusion of social and cultural aspects and establishing funding, policy and/or regulation instruments. The event welcomes representatives from water companies, regulators, supply chains and researchers with a young mind and spirit! We provide affordable fees for everyone to participate. Join us! The Call for abstracts is OPEN until 10 January 2017.

Information & registration: go.bath.ac.uk/ywp

Supported by

Water Innovation
& Research
Centre

For sponsorship opportunities as well as delegate and exhibition packs, please contact iwaukywp@gmail.com

