

“The Wetskills Water Challenge is a two-week thinktank for (Bachelor (final year), Master and PhD) students and young professionals (Maximum 5 years working experience) with a passion for water, sustainability and climate from all over the world. They meet in a country and work on water/sustainability-related topics in transdisciplinary and transcultural teams.

The study cases are provided and formulated by case owners. The study cases describe a water/sustainability-related challenge, based on the regional challenges of the hosting country where the Wetskills is organized. The team is challenged to create an out-of-the-box and applicable solution for the case owner. The innovative concepts that result from this programme are pitched during a high level event in the form of an ice-breaking and energizing session.

The case owners, active in or related to the water sector, determine the challenge and topic of the study cases of Wetskills. Case owners are smaller and larger organisations (businesses, governments, knowledge institutes).

Wetskills Water Challenges provides a platform to integrate experiences from various generations, backgrounds, cultures and disciplines in an innovative and interactive way. On top of that Wetskills provides eye-catching exposure in our worldwide water network.
